Nixon Increases Pullout Pace, Says GI Offensives in War End

By Fred Farris

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—President Nixon, declaring that the U.S. ground combat offensive role in Vietnam has ended, today announced a speedup in American troop withdrawals down to a level of 130,000 by Feb. 1.

This was an increase of more than a third over the present pullout rate for December and January, with most of the 45,000 men scheduled for withdrawal to be home by Christmas.

The President said at an unannounced press conference that he would disclose further withdrawal plans before Feb. 1 in light of conditions then regarding enemy activity, progress in Vietnamization and in securing the release of Communist-held American war prisoners.

While he said "American troops are now in a defensive position," with South Vietnamese units taking over the ground combat role, the President said "airpower will continue to be used longer than our ground forces."

Mr. Nixon said that if a negotiated settlement to the Vietnam conflict is reached, the United States would remove all its military forces both from Vietnam and from support roles elsewhere in Asia.

President Nixon as he announced new Vietnam troop cuts Friday.

But, the President said, "if we do not get a negotiated settlement, then it will be necessary to maintain a residual force (of U.S. troops in Vietnam)." Mr. Nixon did not indicate the size of the residual force, but he said it would be needed to encourage fruitful negotiations as well as to help the South Vietnamese with their own defense effort.

The President discussed the Vietnam situation five days after the return of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird from an inspection trip to South Vietnam.

Under the new withdrawal schedule, 25,000 U.S. troops will leave Vietnam in December with 20,000 more to be withdrawn in January. The rate since Mr. Nixon's last announcement April 7 has averaged 14,300 troops a month.

When Mr. Nixon entered the White House in January, 1969, the U.S. troop commitment to South Vietnam was nearing its peak. This came in April, 1969, with 543,500 Americans there.

The President began the long withdrawal process that June, with an initial removal of 25,000 troops.

Tricks Not Mentioned

On past occasions, the President has mentioned progress at the Paris peace talks as one of three factors that would dictate the rate of troop removals. The Paris talks have been stalemated for months now with no apparent sign of progress.

Today, the President did not cite the peace discussions in outlining factors determining the next round of withdrawals. But he did say it would depend on progress in Vietnamization—the U.S. effort to train and equip South Vietnamese forces to handle their country's defense—and the level of enemy activity, in-

Chinese Reds UN Aides First Visit

ANTHONY ASTRACHAN, U.N. headquarter's spokesman, said today that the Chinese delegation to the U.N. will treat carefully its first visit to the United Nations. He said the delegation, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua, will arrive in New York today.

A spokesman for Mr. Chiao said that the delegation might not participate actively as it was expected to do. He said he hoped the delegation would participate in all in assembly committees. Chiao said they would meet simultaneously with the U.S. delegation.

Same Status as Russians U.S. Will Permit UN Chinese To Visit 75 Pct. of the Nation

By Tad Szulc

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 12 (NYT).—The Nixon administration will accord the Chinese delegation to the UN treatment equal to that granted the Soviet Union, although Washington and Peking have no diplomatic relations.

Senior U.S. officials here and in Washington said that the decision to equate China with the Soviet Union at the UN through identical treatment of their diplomats in terms of travel restrictions in this country was a major policy move ordered by the White House.

126th Ulster Killing of Year; IRA Halts Pre-Tarring Trial

BELFAST, Nov. 12 (UPI).—A man with a submachine gun walked into a Belfast dentist's office today and fatally shot a man sitting in the waiting room, police said.

The girl, the fourth seized by the militant women this week in the Bogside area, was unarmed, the spokesman for the IRA's Provisional wing said in a statement telephoned to newsmen at a Londonderry hotel.

The Official wing of the IRA had warned in a statement issued in Dublin last night that it would not tolerate any more incidents in which militant women shave the girls' heads and dash them with tar or ink.

"Anyone who used the name of Official Republican Army to carry out this sort of dastardly act will be dealt with immediately," the statement said. A Provisional statement also condemned the attacks but said some form of punishment was necessary for girls who date or become engaged to British soldiers.

Marta Doherty, 19, who had her head shorn and was tarred this week because of her engagement to a British soldier, called off her wedding scheduled for today, family friends said.

Paid-For Mirages a Topic

France, Israel Begin Talks Aimed at Improving Links

By Henry Giniger

PARIS, Nov. 12 (NYT).—France and Israel, once allies and now political adversaries, have begun important talks here on ways of improving their relations.

The diplomatic break came after the Israeli government informed the French at the end of September that it would be willing to consider accepting reimbursement for 50 Mirage fighter planes that it had purchased but which have been held under embargo here since 1967.

A conditional Israeli agreement to abandon its claims to the Golan Heights marked a major change in official policy. Since President de Gaulle slapped the embargo on delivery of all arms following the 1967 Mideast war, the Israelis had insisted on demanding that the French honor their contract and deliver the planes.

The impasse was accompanied by a steady deterioration in relations as France, in Israeli eyes, drew closer to the Arab world and supported its positions.

The talks now proceeding at the expert level here are described by informed circles as extremely difficult. Israel was said to have insisted that the Mirage problem be solved as part of an overall settlement of French-Israeli differences.

Four Africans To Continue Mideast Effort

By Bernard D. Nossiter

DAKAR, Nov. 12 (AP).—The African presidential peace mission will return to the Middle East "within the next few days" to resume their attempts to mediate in the Israeli-Arab conflict, it was announced here tonight.

Presidents Leopold Sedar Senghor of Senegal and Yakubu Gowon of Nigeria and representatives of Presidents Joseph Mobutu of Zaire (formerly Congo-Kinshasa) and Amadou Ahidjo of Cameroun will go first to Cairo and then Tel Aviv.

The four heads of state flew here Monday from their first meetings with Israeli and Egyptian leaders to report to the full 10-nation committee of the Organization of African Unity on their first findings.

The French embargo officially affected all countries actively engaged in the 1967 conflict, including both Israel and Arab states. But Israel was France's biggest arms customer and the flow of military supplies from here during the 1950s and 1960s was the principal mark of the effective alliance between the two countries.

Rogers Urges Mideast Talks With Both Sides in Proximity

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Secretary of State William P. Rogers today urged that the Mideast peace talks be held with representatives of the parties "in close proximity" so they can exchange views quickly.

He said the method of getting the positions of the Mideast rivals by long distance from their capitals used earlier in the effort for a solution has been "a very cumbersome procedure."

The differences between the two sides since the U.S.-sponsored diplomatic effort got under way with the 1970 cease-fire have now been brought to a point where a faster negotiating process is needed, he said.

In his remarks to an annual meeting of the Sigma Delta Chi journalistic society, Mr. Rogers did not go into specifics on Washington's idea of how the Mideast opponents should be negotiating.

Other U.S. officials have suggested negotiations might take place in a hotel in New York, with Israeli envoys on one floor and Egyptian representatives on another.

U.S. diplomats believe the Arabs are not yet ready to engage in face-to-face negotiations with the Israelis; but the proximity of emissaries such as in one building could hasten communications.

Mr. Rogers spoke of the U.S. effort for a Mideast settlement as one of a wide range of peace initiatives being conducted by the Nixon administration.

In a Dozen Areas Britain, France Forge New and Closer Ties

By Bernard D. Nossiter

LONDON, Nov. 12 (WP).—Britain and France today proclaimed "a new and yet closer relationship" after a two-day visit here by Maurice Schumann, the French Foreign Minister.

A joint declaration listed a dozen ways in which stronger links are being forged, from a common effort to combat the drug trade to increased cultural and scientific exchanges.

The declaration also called for increased French language instruction for British civil servants; enlarged exchanges of youths, teachers, artists and scientists; periodic meetings of high officials to monitor these exchanges, and a speed-up in the studies for a tunnel under the Channel between France and Britain.

But more important than specific agreements, officials of both countries insisted, was the public demonstration that the embittered atmosphere of the last decade was at an end. English-French relations in the 1960s fell to a postwar low because former President de Gaulle twice vetoed Britain's bid to join the Common Market.

To underline the new era of good feeling, it was announced that Queen Elizabeth II would make an official visit to France next year, from May 15 to May 19.

French officials are taking special satisfaction from the fact that Mr. Schumann is the first Common Market foreign minister to come to London since the House of Commons approved Britain's entry last month. During his stay here, he talked with Prime Minister Edward Heath, Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home and Geoffrey Rippon, Britain's Common Market negotiator.

One question raised by the new relationship is its effect on West Germany, France's major rival for leadership of the Common Market.

At a news conference, Mr. Schumann gave a hint of what he expected by suggesting that London was aligning itself with Paris in the current French-German quarrel over monetary affairs.

"The British approach," Mr. Schumann said, "is certainly nearer to ours."

British sources insisted, however, that they did not want to control themselves in the key issue of the French-German dispute, the price of the mark in France. Agreement between the French and British revolves essentially around their resistance to increasing the price of their currencies and their desire that the dollar price of gold should rise.

Mr. Schumann also said he had found a "very definite and very positive attitude" by Britain toward the holding of a European security conference, an objective persistently sought by the Soviet Union and strongly endorsed by France.

Here, too, British sources offered a less expansive version. They said that they simply regard such a conference as inevitable after East and West Germany sign an agreement on Berlin's future status. Britain has demonstrated no enthusiasm for the meeting, largely because it cannot see what concrete results it will have.

The French foreign minister acknowledged that France and Britain remained apart on the question of a mutual and balanced cutback in NATO and Warsaw Pact forces. France strongly opposes any such agreement because, Mr. Schumann said, it perpetuates Europe's division into blocs.

Connally Ending Tokyo Visit; Approach Was Low Key

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (Reuters).—Treasury Secretary John Connally today ended a five-day visit to Japan, to discuss the monetary crisis, that appears to have gone more smoothly than the Japanese had expected. He has made it quite clear the United States wants Japan to make a major contribution to solve the crisis. Mr. Connally has adopted a low-key approach to the differences between Washington and Tokyo over currency parities and trade.

Florida Judge Gives Teeth to Piranha Law

ORLANDO, Fla., Nov. 11 (AP).—A driver sentenced to 60 days in jail is the first convicted under a law that bans possession of piranha fish in Florida waters. The man, 32, was convicted Wednesday of having the little fish in his car. Judge Frederick J. Tarrant said the delayed execution of the law for six months was warranted because the next time a convicted "will go to jail."

Berkeley City Council Votes Give Deserters Sanctuary

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Berkeley City Council today voted to give military deserters and draft dodgers sanctuary in the city. The council also ordered city marshals and military police to refrain from aiding deserters in the city. The council's decision, passed Wednesday night, came as a response to the "Stop the Draft" movement formed by the crew of the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, which was scheduled to sail today for a station off the Vietnam coast.

Space-Project Liability Treaty Advances in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 12 (UPI).—An international treaty providing for payment for damages or debris caused by objects launched into space was approved unanimously yesterday by the General Assembly's Special Political Committee. The amount of compensation is to be determined by the countries involved or, failing that, by a three-member claims commission whose decision would be a recommendation but not legally binding.

Legislature Seat Chicanos

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP).—The state senate has a redistricting bill that will create a new senate seat for Mexican-Americans. The bill, which passed by a 23 to 13 vote yesterday, will have no trouble in the assembly. Chicano-American leaders had pushed for at least three heavily Mexican-American districts out of the senate.

SHIP STORAGE—The USS Betelgeuse, an attack cargo ship, undergoes a new method of preserving inactive ships as an air-inflated, plastic-treated cover is fitted over the ship's upper portions at Philadelphia Navy Yard. The procedure reduces the work necessary to preserve equipment above the main deck.

Photos Taken By Mariner-9 Of Mars Pole

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 12 (UPI).—As Mariner-9 neared Mars, it aimed its cameras at the planet's south polar cap today to observe the one area on the Martian surface not clouded by a great dust storm. The bright polar cap was the only Mars feature clearly visible in most of the 30 pictures radioed back to earth last night. The spacecraft was taking a second 24-hour sequence today as it zeroed in on Mars's southern hemisphere.

Top Moon Layer Transmitted Signals to Earth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—Radio signals sent from a spacecraft behind the moon have been received on earth apparently transmitted through the moon's body. Smithsonian Institution researchers said yesterday. As the Apollo lunar command module Endeavor passed into the traditional radio dead spot behind the moon Aug. 3, the researchers continued listening for radio signals with a 150-foot radio antenna.

N.Y. Pollution Fine: $200,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP).—A $200,000 fine was imposed today on the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co. for 100 unlawful discharges of copper and other wastes into the Hudson River at Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. The company pleaded guilty last Sept. 27 to a 100-count indictment alleging spills five days a week from Jan. 4 to May 24 from its mill in Westchester County. Company officials also said that the plant had remedied the situation.

7 Americans, Briton Are Held Scotland Yard Seizes Eight In $30 Million Chicago Theft

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Seven Americans, bleary-eyed from all-night questioning by Scotland Yard detectives today, were ordered held in London's Exton Prison in connection with the theft of $30 million worth of bonds and stocks in Chicago. Despite their protests that they were innocent, the seven were ordered held for reappearance next Friday in Marlborough Street Magistrate's Court.

U.S. Army in Europe Warned Minority Rights Are a Must

BERCHTESGADEN, West Germany, Nov. 12 (AP).—The U.S. Army's European headquarters today warned that the Army's commanders in Europe have their careers at stake when it comes to enforcement of racial equality in troop units. Underlining the Army's determination to insure equality, Maj. Gen. Frederic Davison declared: "It won't be long before every cotton-picking commander knows his neck is on the line. Just watch and see the fur fly."

Team in N.Y. Develops Heart That Mimics Muscle Action

ANAHEIM, Calif., Nov. 12 (UPI).—A team of physicians and scientists at Downstate Medical Center, in Brooklyn, N.Y., has brought the development of a heart that mimics muscle action a step forward by devising a rough model of a heart pump that closely mimics the way the human heart works. The Downstate pump works by "wringing" the blood out of the heart's main pumping chamber, using bands of "muscles" made of an alloy that alternately expands and contracts in response to changes in temperature.

U.S. Sergeant Gets 15 Years for Aiding Russians

AGANA, Guam, Nov. 12 (UPI).—A general court-martial today sentenced U.S. Air Force Sgt. Raymond G. Dechamplain to 15 years at hard labor for security violations. The charges for which the sergeant was convicted included failure to report "contact with foreign agents," "conspiracy to violate security regulations" and "violation of security regulations." A charge accusing him of "attempts to commit espionage" was dropped earlier.

Soviet Probes on Course

MOSCOW, Nov. 12 (Reuters).—Two Soviet Mars probes launched in May are still on course and are expected to reach the area of the planet toward the end of this month, Soviet sources said today. Official news services have provided only scant information on the mission of the two four-ton craft. It is not clear whether they will land on Mars or go into orbit around it.

Noisiest Fire: 150 Alarms All Clang at Once

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 12 (Reuters).—It must have been just about the noisiest fire ever. A fire alarm factory went up in flames yesterday setting off 150 alarm systems inside. "It was a really noisy one all right," a fire official said. "People could hear it for a great distance." The alarms all went off together when the temperature inside the burning factory reached 135 degrees. Damage was estimated at $120,000.

BOOKS TWELVE TALES FROM GRIMM

Translated from the German by Elizabeth Shub. Illustrated by Nanny Hogrogian. The Macmillan Company. 118 pp. $4.95.

Reviewed by John Gardner

WE praise the scholarly brothers Grimm for collecting the "Kinder und Hausmärchen," charitably forgetting their high and absurd intentions. Sneaking like sapsack Herr Professors from kitchen to kitchen and copying down old women's tales, their object (especially Wilhelm's) was to learn the secrets of the Old Religion, Christianity having been made to look foolish—at least to the simpleton scholarly mind—by the so-called higher criticism. What the folktales contained, according to Wilhelm, was clues to ancient mysteries like jewels half hidden in tangled grass and flowers. To Great philologists (especially Jacob), they had influence; and the effect of their notions has been devastating. For a hundred years philologists and anthropologists have torn the grass and flowers out of supposed folk literature from the Märchen to "Beowulf" in search of eldritch treasures. Whereas medieval courtly poets turned their backs to the complex Christian symbolism the formerly meaningless Beowulf monsters becoming, for instance, figures of the Platonic-Georgian tripartite soul, folk story-tellers used meaning-drenched creatures (dwarves, elves, simpletons, marriageable princesses) to preach simple manners and good habits to their children. The tales most interesting to the brothers Grimm—because most complex, most mysterious—were merely those most corrupted by folk forgetfulness and hybrid crossing. The Grimms' first collection (1812-15) gave the simplest and generally the best examples of the German grandmother's moral art—among other things the early, tight versions of "About a Fisherman and His Wife," "Brier Rose," "Rapunzel," "Hansel and Gretel," and "Rumpelstiltskin."
